About Me

My name is Dhaval Bhagora, and I am a 20-year-old 3rd-year BCA student currently honing my skills in Flutter development at TOPS Technology. I have hands-on experience in creating simple, user-friendly mobile applications and am proficient in using SQFLITE for offline data storage. I am passionate about mobile app development and am actively seeking a job opportunity to further enhance my skills and gain valuable real-world experience in the field.

Project

Blood Bank Application
Developed a blood bank management app with separate admin and user sides. The admin can manage blood requests and view donor lists, while users can request blood and register as donors. The app shows real-time availability of blood types and is built with plans for future online database integration.
